

Choose a THEME for your English class:

Find the number, by the course section number, that corresponds to a theme below.

- 1 Delve into an exploration of individual identity, with a focus on the ways we define ourselves in our interaction with others.
- 2 Explore environmental ethics with inquiry into questions the field raises: Do plants suffer? Do we have moral obligations to wildlife? Is it right to let wildfires burn or put them out? What are the moral dilemmas food, water, and shelter raise? Then apply the emerging ethic to real life situations.
- 3 Chicana(o) Style: Step into the world and history of the Mexican, the Chicana(o) the biracial, bicultural experience. Explore border crossings and the crossing of cultures. Learn about or relive the joys and pains of the wonderful and sometimes strange Chicana(o) life.
- 4 Investigate environmental issues, particularly those connected to what we eat and where we live.
- 5 Puente: Develop writing skills through an emphasis on Chicano/Latino literature.
- 6 The American Dream: Revisit the land of freedom and equality.
- 7 Re-examine American culture and values by looking at the modern myths of our time—critically read, write, and discuss controversial issues including the success of K-12 education, gender equality, the reality of the American dream, and the benefits of science.
- 8 Read works by scientists, journalists, mystics, and reformers about nature and the wilderness, listening to their reasoning, examining their evidence, and learning from their writing styles.
- 9 Explore the exciting realm of science and discover who we are and how we got here, and learn about the scientists and explorers who got us here while learning to write with panache, flair, and accuracy.
- 10 Writing the Self: Consider ways to use your own experience to craft strong arguments and study examples from some of the best autobiographical writers.
- 11 Examine short stories, poetry, drama, and the novel using formalist, historical and gender focused criticism.
- 12 American Outsiders: Explore American literature from the “outsider’s” perspective, focusing on works from authors protesting the American mainstream or demanding to be let in.
- 13 Examine small incidents through the eyes of John Steinbeck, Eve Ensler and Louis DeBernais to discover the larger truths about war. From WWI through the war on women, discover how war affects everyone involved.
- 14 Explore the evolution of American literature, particularly its foundation in Transcendentalism; investigate marginalized writers and how they redefine genres. Readings: Transcendentalism to Beatnik, Robinson Jeffers to Jack Spicer, Black Fire to Chicano Rasquache.
- 15 Explore the great literature of the human condition, challenging you to respond to literary art, science fiction, music, tragedy, and the joy of life and living.
- 16 What r computers doing 2 ur brain? How do words affect your perception of reality? Click here to inquire how “critical thinking,” reading, and writing can improve the quality of our lives.
- 17 Read arguments of many classical writers on government, justice, and ethics; discuss and write about their claims; and construct our own answers to their challenges.

- 18 Learn to think courageously, to think intelligently, and to think for yourself through challenging the pseudoscientific, the paranormal, and the make-believe world of nutty beliefs and scams.
- 19 Explore American consumerism and wild alternatives.
- 20 First Year Experience with Service Learning: Learn to critically read, write, and think about contemporary issues; evaluate the credibility of sources ranging from academia to the media; and embrace the importance of understanding what is happening in the world around you.
- 21 Expand your global consciousness through literature.

First Year Experience A Wise Choice

First Year Experience (FYE) is a program in place in many colleges across the country. This program was developed because research has shown that students who make connections with their teachers, classmates, and campus are more likely to succeed. So what is FYE? At Gavilan, this program links required English courses together and provides tutoring and counseling. How do students benefit? By working together with your classmates and instructors, you will develop a stronger network of support. Students who enroll in FYE often report:

- higher GPA,
- increased involvement in school,
- more friends,
- more fun in school,
- ability to meet goals,
- stronger critical thinking, reading, and writing abilities,
- saving time and money

ENGLISHENGL 1A Composition*Transferable: CSU, UC; CSU-GE:A2, IGETC:1A; GAV-GE:A2; CAN:ENGL2, ENGL SEQ A

This is a writing course which emphasizes expository writing, argumentative writing, and critical reading of expository prose. It is meant to train students in clear thinking and reasoned support of ideas. Students will be given the opportunity to read models of good expository and argumentative prose and learn the techniques of good writing. These include choosing appropriate subjects, developing restricted, unified, and precise theses and presenting supporting evidence in a logical, lucid, and effective manner. To achieve this end, students write no fewer than six essays and read at least five works, two of which are book length. PREREQUISITE: English 250 and English 260 or English 250 and SSCI 270A or English 250 and SSCI 270B with a grade of 'C' or better or satisfactory score on the English placement examination.
